Baldy View -

Tues. - Evening -

Dearest Sneaky,

now maybe you're gonna feel cheap, but listen I'm a invalid. A really truly invalid and I've got a trained nurse to take care of me. I'm telling you all this 'cause I want a bit of sympathy, and that's something that fled to the woods today. You see Tommy's scumbunt and just so scumbunt like he has never been before, and all people do is laugh at him. Yesterday a few of us went to Ocean Park and Venice to cool off over the 4th, and I enjoyed the swimming so much that I was in a suit for six hours, taking at proper intervals a half hour in the ocean. Well I burned!
That's all. Last night I had to be helped home.
I tossed all night - got up to wards - decided to quit, and found I would lose my pay for the 5th (a holiday) also. Damn - a - quantity I stuck it out. I had to keep walking all the time - can't stop a minute 'cause it seems that the blood wants to burn my legs right up like a fire cracker. I have just taken a hot bath (and, by the way, said a few prayers when I could unclench my teeth) ~~and~~ with a witch hazel sponge on top of it, and now sit in the rocker - my legs on a pillow - really at rest. Please sympathize with me a little bit, 'cause all I have heard today is advice and ha! ha's. On the head I was never tortured so much in all my life.

I'm a new hunch for P.D. first degree. Guess what it is??

Just had a bit of a party - and it was some party too. See? all those letters I was so much disturbed about were safely escorted with that y.m.c.a. ninkepoop. When there was only one brought at the Baldy View. Miss Marison insisted on going to the y.m. for the rest. She went too and bro't two from Sweetheart, and one from mother. Just thinks three letters in one argy when I haven't had one for four days.
Made me forget the Sanburn all most. Oh! and Miss M. bro't a bunch of apricots too. She will sure have me spoiled.

Has to go to bed early tonight Sweetly so I'll best not write some more, 'cept about how I'm just a wantin' you to get my Sanburn, and love so hard and kiss me really truly. Goodnight Sweetly.
