Somed one.

My this has been a wild night - I'll lose my job sure - I think on it. I went to a dance a dime crawl. But when all the school teachers were there and they can't see the whole outfit. It was fun too but mighty lifeless - so there.

Say look what comes today → ☹ ←. If I hadn't sent a letter to ↑ you to Los Angeles, and it hadn't come back today, I wouldn't have heard from you at all. Just a week ago tonight I wrote a letter from the Banks where Shorty works (his father is cashier), to Miss Marison and to you, and I addressed them both to L.A. I was why you missed a day. I sorry, but tonight you get two Saturdays all in one.
But say - the last letter I received, you wrote last wed. eve. I haven't heard a lot of the news. I didn't get a Sagebrush today either.

I'm neglected - absolutely forgotten and alone. About all I'm lonesome for some one, and that's the truth.

Today a couple of the fellows and I laid out a football field.
Practice begins in a very few days and then for lots to do.
When I sit out this fluttering around - doing nothing useful - I may settle down, and work out a few little plans such as learning Spanish & German. Setting a P.O. alumni chapter and a good A. of N. club. I want to do all those things.

Good-night ever more, Sweetheart.
You've spoiled me with all your nice letters. a blank day hurts a lot.
But I'll see you soon and then for all those kisses we're saving up.
