Sneaky Sweetheart! +! -

Got a peach of a letter, and gee I'm glad. Sure I expected a peach of a letter, but when it comes I just naturally have to say so.

Lots of snow today. Did you get some? It makes everybody happy too. No more colds and sick. And say my cold is pretty near better. The castor oil got rid of it all except an awful husky voice, and I am expected to sing an aria at a sacred concert tomorrow night. Practiced it tonight, and it went pretty well considering. Guess I'll be O.K.

Just a moment - just a moment - now that ~~it~~ is cinched and the real big worries are all over, you have to start in on your job. How you're worried and worried about that darned old job of yours ever since you started college, and never yet has there been more than a little hitch that blew over in good shape. You're just like a woman (and why shouldn't you be) you and mother are just alike when getting troubles are within speaking distance. Anyhow and besides where does Sammy expect to find a girl that doesn't think she has prospects of getting married?

Ho-hum, Ho-hum, he makes me tired.

Sonoma have a meeting of all former U. of N. Students this evening in the High School. We ought to get a pretty fine bunch together, and have an honest-to-goodness boosting ~~club~~ club in Sonoma.

Here we go again. Just decided I'd have to shave fore dinner, and that means I have to go right now.

Three weeks from this very day is Xmas and I'll be loving my Sweetheart awful hard. Hurry you - three weeks. Maybe your imagination can think of some nice joint Xmas present for Eva & mother. I like it that a
