Sweetheart o' mine,

Tuesday - 7.30
I like your new coat fine.
See all
let your me come stunner!
You'll - way were,
all your napping fucker during
P PL + W
days to the country -
(X X X)

Skipped a day, didn't I? and I didn't want to either, only I was awful sleepy after rehearsal last night. I'm writing tonight before I go, so there'll be no chance to miss.

These are awful busy days, and happy ones too. all day long I'm sprinting along at the office, then in the evening ~~to~~ when it's not rehearsal, it's a bit of study and some letter writing. I get exercise too - walking to and from work a couple or so miles - then around the works at lot, and every day a swim.

I guess I never told you an awful lot about my job. did I? well I have to take care of everything !!! Sure! There's the gas to test five or six times a day - all the reports to make out, keep track of all the coke and coal, (there's a lot of it, too) change all the charts, and all such flumky work as that. The Super, Mr Otter, is a peach tho! He was brought up in the business and all he knows he dug out for himself.

S. & W. got him from some other company, as they did also with the manager, Mr Roberts.
There's a scarcity of ~~bad~~ men in the organization, and there's the promising part of it all.

all. Well, as I was going to say of Otten, he lets me in on all of his plans (and he's always figuring) then I go ahead and work up all the material for him and he considers it, or rather we consider it, but he does most of the considering. All that makes it interesting and likewise keeps the light ahead. It's gonna be pretty hard work this winter - but if time goes as quickly as it is now going I'll "surprise myself" as George Campbell said.

Guess I've forgotten all about your letter of a couple of weeks ago, because I'm figuring all the time that I'm to see you this summer. Oh Sneaky Sweetheart, how I want that to come! We could get along on the money I make, and what I call happy now, wouldn't be a circumstance to my spirit then. Couldn't I work tho? Gosh I'm praying that all the other problems can work out all right, because I'm a crying for my own Sweetheart -
