Saturday afternoon

Lover,

Yes I take my pen in hand to scratch a line in my sleep, or something, and to say "I thank you" for the note this noon. If you had missed, I'd a fallen to the earth in a snoring heap.

Gorman is in Carson today. And dammy if you look down Lake St. soon after the express and mail comes, you'll see Ruthie headed toward home. I gotta get home to clean my room and admire my chest - I mean the wood one. The smell is so good, and now I'm anxious to fill it up.

Dommie dear, why weren't you here for last night! Heely see it was fun. after we got there, the programs were given to us girls. Well, we used every opportunity available - not a fellow crossed the hall without an escort. the music might start up, but it didn't mean a signal for us and we'd keep them waiting. Just ran things to suit ourselves. They were asked to contribute 10¢ for doughnuts. It lasted until after 12, and then over in the hall we had a time. Edie and I slept out on the porch. The wind started to blow before we got to sleep, and it almost swept us out. Then the dog yelped every so often. In between spells we slept.

I'm expecting some more fun this rushing season. A girl from Elko - Nell Wilkinson - has been rushed to death by them, but Louise never says she'll never be a dridelt. Also $\Delta\Delta\Delta$ Grant President will be here Monday. I'm not even a saint of her here helping them rush. Bah! We gotta entertain for her some way tho.

A week nearer to seeing you again! - which is the most cheerful way to put it. Loving you ever minute all the time, and that means lots since the minutes are many.

You ought to have heard Bert last night in that way-up-yonder voice call out "Harry, I'm cold." He had his head turned on one side and looked coyish. We girls rushed to his rescue and again our Eva said, "you'll get killed in the crush". Mrs. Hendrick laughed hardest of all. Why?
