Sunday Evening.

Sweetheart Rufie.

Just home from church, and more than ready for bed. I'm sure sleepy - no fooling. Put in a busy day paying dinner and party calls. By next week I should have all these removed, and leave with a clean slate. If-

Sent a long night letter to Danny tonight telling him that I'm arranging a substitute here, and will leave shortly. If I don't go, it really doesn't matter what I have to say to square myself. all the more reason why I should go.

Got some pictures today that the girls took up in

get you and me were really quite successful. I've subscribed them just as Helen Mitchell has them in an album she brought to school. It all shows a great deal of interest - I figure.

It'll be lots of fun Tuesday if I spring my early departure on the bunch. It will be some surprise I know.

Up at six - please may I go to bed? That's a sweet child and the next time I see you I'll make everything all right with you. - bless you.

and here's a big hug and a kiss despite a lonesome old day without a letter. I want 'em more now than ever. So - night Sweetheart - a world of love to you.
