

Miss Ruth Pyle,
629 Lake St.,
Reno,
Nevada.

Friday Night.

Sneaky my Sweetheart -
Mr. Mrs. Sphinx

has spoken. This noon I was afraid another day was going to pass without a talk with you, but this evening I got the letter. It did a lot of good too.

What shall I tell you tonight? Shop talk? That can't be very interesting! I'm getting interested howsome-ever, and now all this extra hard work has me absorbed. The strain isn't quite so heavy now, and Sunday, unless the unlooked-for happens.

I shan't go near the place. That sort of invites the unlooked-for, but gol darn it, I want a nice day then so I can take some pictures.
Haven't snapped one yet and it is not because I don't want to either!

Had a nice letter from mother today, and I am sure that she is happy and perfectly contented. I'm anxious to watch the effect, as our great plan is slowly presented to her. I'm sure she appreciates it already, and her moves seem to anticipate an early wedding in the family - yet I'm sure she would like to be consulted, and flirted with a bit. In all excited these days over the turn in events, - it just makes me impatient like a racing horse before the barrier - this isn't a barrier tho' is it - it's the take off for a long, happy, and successful jaunt. just Suesay and Tom - real old fashioned lovers - whom every one loves, and whom everyone respects.

Good night Sweetheart - with a million kisses to you
