"WITH THE COLORS"

Thursday Jan. 31 1918

Hello Kiddie, Another note - mostly because it's convenient, and because I want to talk to you - There is really nothing to tell. But then if I write a lot, and a few misarry you won't feel so bad. Funny I can never think to number these letters isn't it? Shall I start now? All right well call this one th 20 - and go from here.

This has been a dull unpleasant week so far - mostly because it's so damp and cold. We keep cheerful hugging the stove but such an attitude, does not kind a burning desire to write. The ym. is very comfortable also - warm - tables - candles - paper - pens - papers (new) magazines - books - and eats. It's a great work truly.

Score one more for your thoughtfulness, sweetheart; Meuths return has my cold so it eats out of my hand.

Learned nothing but telegraph this week, and I can't write much interesting about that. I ^{can} say ^{how} much it would mean to see you tonight - to whistle, and hear you answer - to wave, and see you wave back - and then to go off arm in arm like nothing could ever happen to make us stop laughing. Ah I love you wife of mine.
