Wed. Evening.

My Son,

☹ - That's the only short hand I know. It's a long face, and you should me how to draw it. It's for you tonight. Set me??

This is a weary old world, I'm always tired. Today besides being in the store for ten hours and a half running, I beat the streets all noon to beat my lowyer man. And hat. man alive it's cookin' hot. My peace of mind was better this aft. than any time since, and I'm holding my breath for sure. Day and I had a bit of a set too and I'm looking for things to occur. I'm holding my breath I say.

Miss M. and I heard the marmoset choir - 200 and some odd strong, and say it was wonderful. The leader had them under complete control. There wasn't a voice out of place, and they could go from $f f f f$ to $p p p p$ faster and more completely than I ever imagined could be done, except by a three ton safe falling out of a fourth story window. Miss Bates the soprano soloist has a wonderfully trained voice, and the baritone has a good voice but I can't get his delivery or technique. The harmony was really rich - I never that mixed voices could do it. McClelland, the man whom you heard at the Tabernacle, was at the organ, and the organ is a good one. It's the biggest treat I've had in a long-long time. You should hear them if they go to Reno.

Met Philippi & Somers on Spring St today and will see them for a little while after choir practice Friday night.
Also saw a Mr. Lawrence whom I knew in Reno a long, long time ago. I was in a great hurry but will see him next week some time.

I was going to spend this even-
